- 9.8.1. The Library provides space for exhibits that direct the public's attention to the materials and services of the library, provide exposure to the work of artisans and artists, or provide information on subjects of general public interest.
- 9.8.2. Works of art may be accepted for display in the Library on the condition that the Library is not held responsible for any loss or damage. A signed release form will be required.
- 9.8.3. Items may not include sale prices. However, the Library may make price lists supplied by the exhibitor available when a customer requests it.
- 9.8.4. Transactions for the purchase of items exhibited must be directly between the purchaser and the exhibitor or his/her official agent.
- 9.8.5. The Library reserves the right to reject any part of an exhibit or to revise displays.
- 9.8.6. Displays that contravene applicable federal, provincial or municipal laws will not be accepted.
- 9.8.7. The sale of books or related material by authors or other guest speakers invited by staff to speak at the Library is permitted. Such sales must be conducted at the event only by the speaker or by a local bookseller selected by the publisher or author.
- 9.8.8. The Library or the Friends of the Library may sell books or other material on Library premises.
- 9.8.9. Board approval is required prior to any items being sold for charitable or other purposes in the Library, other than exceptions listed above.
